HER FIGHT

2018: Diagnosed with breast cancer while 4 weeks pregnant. Despite chemo, radiation, and surgeries, Lauren delivered a healthy baby and reached remission.

2023-2024: Cancer returned, now Stage IV metastatic breast cancer, having spread to her bones and liver. After trying 4 treatment lines, conventional medicine told Lauren that there is no hope, but she is not one to give up.

2025: After 2 years of exhaustive research, Lauren found a path to remission. But it is not covered by health insurance. Lauren started on this path in January with breakthrough ablation and immunotherapy treatment at the Williams Cancer Institute. Learn more on her website at riseforlauren.org.

HER GOAL

Achieve Remission at the Williams Cancer Institute using advanced intratumoral injections and immunotherapies that stimulate the immune system to target cancer cells, a science-based, evidence-driven and proven approach! This is combined with an expensive regimen Lauren follows to stay in optimal health via high-dose Vitamin C, supplements, and more.

THE COST

Current Therapies: $7,000/month regimen of integrative treatments that manage her condition and boost her immune system

Williams Cancer Institute: $400K for personalized treatment plus PEF and intratumoral immunotherapy to get Lauren to remission
